There are some players who have not yet been assigned to a club.

The new League will be ruled by a managing beard of sixteen, composed of one player and one stockholder from each of the clubs.

The players claim that every ball-player excepting Amson who this year played under the National League will next season play for the Brotherhood.

It is rumored, however, that John Clarkson, of Boston, may decide to remain under the pay of Soden, Billings & Co.

It is claimed by one player that a ten-year contract at $9,000 has been offered to him to remain with the old League.

The identity of the player in question is a secret, but there are but very few men in the business whose work would give them the shadow of an excuse for such a sairry.

Buck Ewing is head and shoulders above any catcher or captain in the country, but Buck has received no such offer; and, while the especial "star" of each club might be named, everything seems to point to John Clarkson as the one who claims the offer and who is holding back on that account.

As it happens, the Inspector was well acquainted with Prof. Child, for his two boys had attended the Friends' Seminary, in East Sixteenth street, where Mr. Child was Principal for several years.

Thomas A. Child, the brother, and Andrew J. McIntoch, an intimate friend of the family, who has taken a most active part in the search, are co-vinced, on the other hand, that the two mysterious individuals who say they saw Child were not deceived, but that their testimony is perfectly reliable.

FRY CARLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION, ] Paris, Oct. 31.—The sensational morsel furnished by the sudden breaking off of the marriage engagement of Prince Murat to Miss Gwendoline Caldwell is rolling deliciously under the Parisian tongue. A new sweetness of gossip is developed every One report has it that the Prince talked very dippantly of the affair before leaving Paris, which he has done in order to be one of a congenial shooting party at Fontainebleau.

The noble General is said to have declared in ffect that Miss Caldwell had made a mistake in her appraisal-that French princes had a far greater market value than Italian. Another story is that the Prince was bought off by his own family.

That is, that Princess Josehim, daughter-inaw of the General. saw Miss Caldwell's 50,000 france a year, which was the allowance proposed for the titled husband-who-was-to-have-been, and either raised it or furnished some other inducements, so that Murat became willing to tarry ere he married.

Murat's family is certainly well pleased at the rupture, and Miss Caldwell's friends have not been slow to congratulate her on her escape.

The lady will sail for New York on the Gascogne, from Havre, Nov. 9.

After eight hours of hard work the vessel was got off and at 10 o'clock steamed to the Cob Dock, in the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The Galena was on her way from Baltimore, where she arrived a week ago with prisoners from Navassa.

Rear-Admiral Gherardi was in command of the vessel when trouble broke out at Navassa, and it was he who quelled the mutiny and brought the ringleaders back in irons.

Romer Shoal is just off Sandy Hook Point, and it was near here that the big Inman ateamer city of New York went ashore two weeks ago.
